1 . Main points

- Retail sales volumes are estimated to have fallen by 0.9% in March 2023, following a rise of 1.1% in February 2023 (revised from a rise of 1.2%).
- Looking at the broader picture, sales volumes rose by 0.6% in the three months to March 2023 when compared with the previous three months; the first three-month on three-month rise since August 2021.
- Non-food stores sales volumes fell by 1.3% in March 2023, following a rise of 2.4% in February, with feedback from retailers that poor weather conditions throughout most of March affected sales.
- Food store sales volumes fell by 0.7% in March 2023, following a rise of 0.6% in February 2023.
- Non-store retailing (predominantly online retailers) sales volumes fell by 0.8% in March 2023, following a rise of 0.3% in February 2023.
- Automotive fuel sales volumes rose by 0.2% in March 2023, following a fall of 1.2% in February 2023; sales remain 8.5% below their pre-coronavirus (COVID-19) February 2020 levels.

Table 1 provides a snapshot of the retail sales industry in March 2023, with both volume and value growth rates.

Monthly retail sales volumes are estimated to have fallen by 0.9% in March 2023 following a rise of 1.1% in February 2023, revised down from an increase of 1.2% in our previous publication.

Looking more broadly, sales volumes rose by 0.6% in the three months to March 2023 when compared with the previous three months. This is the highest rate and first rise in this series since August 2021 (1.3%).

Retail sales volumes in March 2023 were 3.1% lower than the same month last year and 0.7% below their pre-coronavirus (COVID-19) February 2020 level.

The reporting period for this bulletin covers 26 February to 1 April 2023 and so excludes the school Easter holiday period from 3 to 12 April 2023.

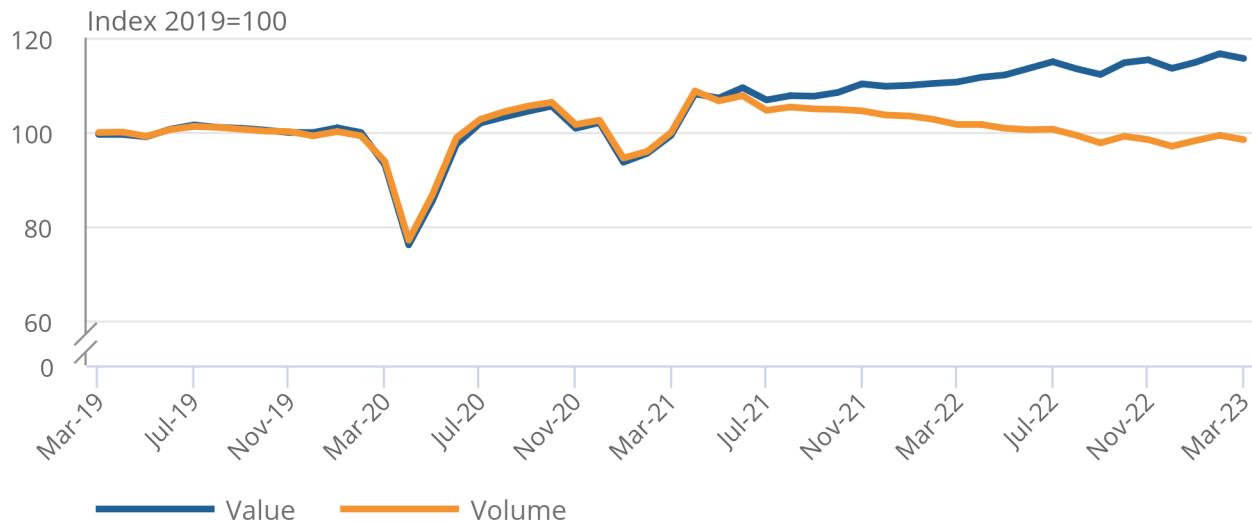

Improvements following our annual seasonal adjustment review will be implemented in our next release on 26 May 2023, which may lead to revisions to historical periods.

Month-on-month contribution to growth by sector

Notes:

1. Individual contributions may not sum to the total because of rounding.

Figure 2 shows the contributions to the 0.9% month-on-month fall in overall retail sales volumes (quantity bought) in March 2023. This highlights that the fall over the month is because of falls across all main sectors except automotive fuel whose contribution rounded to zero.

3 . Retail sales, selected sectors

Non-food stores

Volume sales, seasonally adjusted, Great Britain, March 2019 to March 2023

Total non-food stores sales volumes (total of department, clothing, household and other non-food stores) fell by 1.3% over the month, following a rise of 2.4% in February 2023.

Feedback from retailers suggests that this was partly because of poor weather conditions in March 2023. The Met Office's monthly climate summary reported that the UK had 155% of average rainfall for the month, making it the sixth wettest March on record since 1836.

Within non-food stores, department stores and clothing stores sales volumes fell by 3.2% and 1.7% over the month.

Other non-food stores, such as jewellery stores and garden centres, fell by 0.6% in March 2023. This follows strong growth in February 2023 (2.9%) because of second-hand goods stores.

Household goods stores sales volumes rose by 0.1% in March 2023, following a fall of 1.1% in February 2023.

Food stores

Notes:

1. Value and volume series are seasonally adjusted independently

Food store sales volumes fell by 0.7% in March 2023, following a rise of 0.6% in February 2023, which may have been affected by shortages of some food items.

Our Public opinions and social trends: personal experiences and shortages of goods dataset for the period 8 to 19 March 2023 reported that 26% of adults experienced shortages of essential food items that were needed on a regular basis. This is an increase from 18% in the period 8 to 19 February 2023.

More than a third of adults (36%) also reported that they could not find a replacement when the items they needed were not available (8 to 19 March 2023). This proportion increased from 25% in the previous month (8 to 19 February 2023).

Our Public opinion and social trends bulletin for the period 5 to 16 April is published at 9:30am on 21 April 2023.

Compared with their pre-coronavirus (COVID-19) February 2020 levels, food store sales volumes were down 3.0%, with continued feedback from retailers of a decline in volumes sold (quantity bought) because of the increased cost of living and food prices.

Our Consumer price inflation: March 2023 bulletin reported record increases in food and non-alcoholic beverages prices in the 12 months to March 2023.

Non-store retailing

Volume sales, seasonally adjusted, Great Britain, March 2019 to March 2023

Non-store retailing sales volumes fell by 0.8% in March 2023, following a rise of 0.3% in February 2023. Despite the fall, sales volumes were 19.3% above their pre-coronavirus February 2020 levels.

4 . Online retail

Notes

1. All retailing refers to sales as a proportion of total retail sales.
2. Percentage weights based on 2022 data.

Table 2 shows the month-on-month and month-on-year (annual) growth rates for the amount spent online by value, and the proportion of total retail sales value that was made online by sector. The percentage weights show where money is spent online. For example, 7 pence in every pound spent online was spent in department stores in 2022.

Online spending values rose by 0.8% in March 2023, because of monthly increases across all industries except other non-food stores.

The value of online spending rose, while the value of retail sales as a whole fell; so the proportion of online sales rose to 25.8% in March 2023, from 25.4% in February 2023. The proportion of retail sales online has remained broadly consistent at around 26% since May 2022.

The proportion of retail sales taking place online remains above the pre-coronavirus (COVID-19) pandemic levels (19.8% in February 2020).

6 . Glossary

Value (amount spent)

The value estimates reflect the total turnover that businesses have collected over a standard period.

Volume (quantity bought)

The volume estimates are calculated by taking the value estimates and adjusting to remove the effect of price changes.

Seasonally adjusted

Seasonally adjusted estimates are derived by estimating and removing calendar effects (for example, Easter moving between March and April) and seasonal effects (such as increased spending in December because of Christmas) from the non-seasonally adjusted (NSA) estimates.

Non-seasonally adjusted

Non-seasonally adjusted estimates refer to raw data where the effects of regular or seasonal patterns have not been removed.

Non-store retailing

Non-store retailing refers to retailers that do not have a store presence. While the majority is made up of online retailers, it also includes other retailers, such as stalls and markets.

7 . Measuring the data

Quality

More quality and methodology information on strengths, limitations, appropriate uses, and how the data were created is available in our Retail Sales Index Quality and Methodology Information \(QMI\).

Revisions

Revisions in this release are a result of:

- revisions to seasonal adjustment factors, which have been reviewed and re-estimated
- late responses to survey returns replacing imputations, or revisions to original returns

Revisions are allowed to occur naturally each month, along the full length of each data time series, following direct seasonal adjustment of the component time series.

Improvements following our annual seasonal adjustment review will be implemented in our next release on 26 May 2023, which may lead to larger revisions to historical periods.

For further information on the revisions profile, please see our Retail sales revisions triangles dataset, published on a one-month growth basis, and our Retail sales revisions triangles datasets, published on a three-month growth basis.

8 . Strengths and limitations

Uses and users

The Retail Sales Index (RSI) is an important economic indicator and one of the earliest short-term measures of economic activity. It is used in the creation of the national accounts and widely used by private and public sector institutions, particularly by the Bank of England and HM Treasury, to assist in informed decision and policymaking.

Comparability with international data

The most recent international estimate of retail sales available for March 2023 was published by the United States Census Bureau on 14 April 2023. In their Advanced monthly sales for retail and food services, March 2023 report, they included the amount spent in the United States retail industry, including motor vehicles and parts, and food services.

Data for Northern Ireland are published by the Northern Ireland Statistics and Research Agency \(NISRA\). Their Retail Sales Index release for Quarter 4 \(Oct to Dec\) 2022 was published on 16 March 2023.

It should be noted that accurate comparisons cannot be made against these or other international statistics for a variety of reasons, including differences in methodology.

Eurostat also published their latest estimates of the volume of retail trade across the EU on 11 April 2023 for February 2023. This shows the seasonally adjusted volume of retail trade in both the euro area (EA19) and the European Union (EU27), when compared with January 2023.

Estimates in this table have been produced by combining a breakdown of commodity sales from 54 large retailers with total sales from other retailers.

The monthly periods consist of 4 weeks except for March, June, September and December which are 5 weeks. January 2020 is also a 5 week period.

The quarterly indices are the weighted averages of the monthly indices for the months within the quarter, the weights being the number of weeks in each monthly period.

1 The Food, drink and tobacco category, Household goods category and Other non-food category include revisions to the commodity classifications provided by respondents.

In July 2018, we increased our sample for the commodity breakdown from 31 to 54 retailers to improve coverage and better represent the commodities sold. Growth rates may not be comparable as a result. This does not impact the main retail sales data.
